916 Area Code Overlay Plan, El Dorado, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, and Yolo Counties

On 02/09/17, the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) approved the addition of a new area code, 279, in the 916 area code region. This is called an “Overlay Plan”. Under the overlay plan, current 916 Area Code customers can keep their numbers, however, as of 02/10/18, all calls made from the 916 Area Code will have to be dialed using 1 + area code + 7-digit telephone number. For example, 845-8311 will now need to be dialed as 1-916-845-8311.

- In addition to entering the area code and phone number for all calls, you should also check the following items:
 - Update any pre-programmed 7-digit phone numbers in your mobile device to include the area code.
 - Check your contact lists in outlook and your State issued mobile phone to confirm all numbers include an area code.
 - Fax machines – Verify they use 1+ area code for 916 calls
 - Speed dialers on your desk or mobile phone may need to be updated
 - Call forwarding settings may need to be updated
 - Access the following website for more information: www.cpuc.ca.gov/916areacode/

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

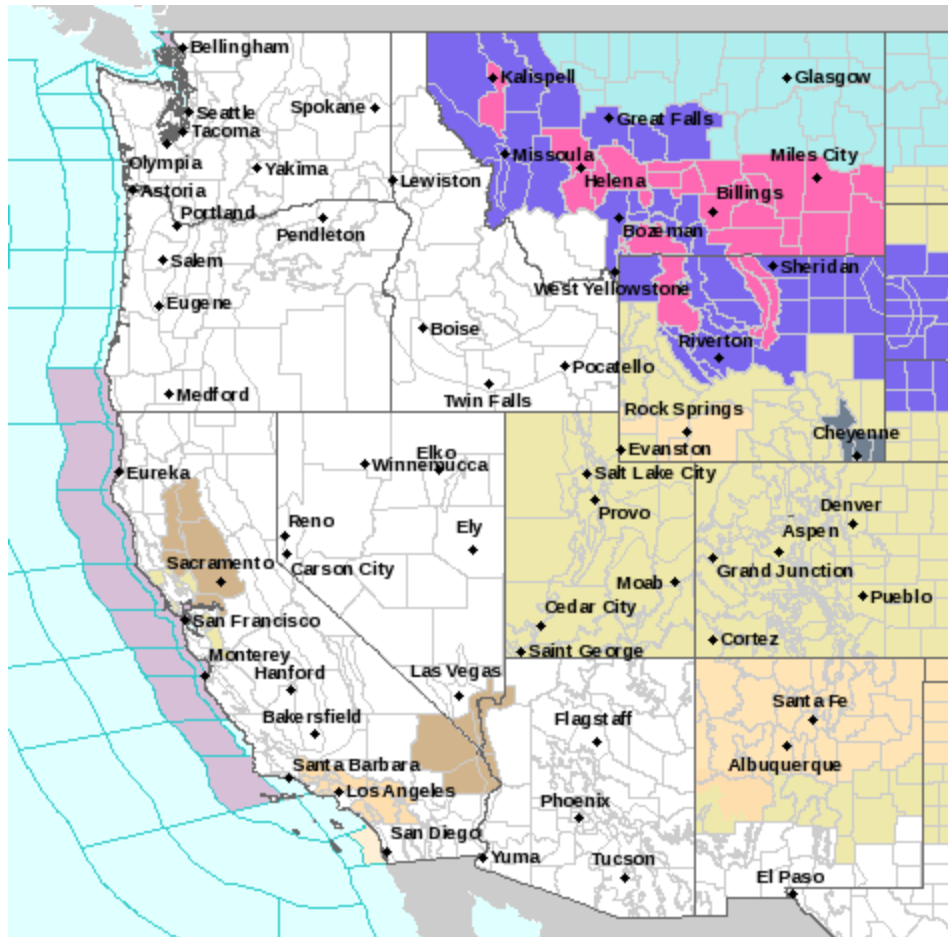

Strong high pressure just west of CA will be stationary through today. This pattern will produce mostly clear skies and well above normal temperatures under a dry NW-N flow aloft. Afternoon temperatures will be as much as 15-20 degrees above normal with minimum relative humidity (RH) in inland areas reaching 15-25%. N-NE surface winds will gust to around 25 mph during nights and mornings from the western Cascade-Sierra slopes to the coastal mountains each day through today.

A moderately strong but dry cold front will move from north to south across the region tonight. At this point no precipitation is expected with the front. Temperatures will be cooler, but still several degrees above normal, and minimum daily RH will be higher. N-NE/offshore winds following the front could gust to 35-45 mph and locally higher in the usual areas from the western Cascade-Sierra slopes to the coast Saturday through early Sunday. A similar cold front will pass over the region Sunday night, and similar winds are expected Monday and Tuesday. This front is expected to produce isolated light rain and snow showers in far northern areas.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The strong high pressure area will move further off the coast causing temperatures to cool around 5 degrees and minimum humidity to increase into the teens today. Winds will be light this afternoon. A trough currently over Canada will drop south into the Great Basin Saturday causing temperatures to cool to around 5 degrees above normal. There will be a substantial increase in humidity on Saturday. Westerly winds of 20 to 30 mph with gusts to 50 mph will surface across the wind prone mountain and desert locations tonight through Saturday afternoon. There will be northeast winds of 20 to 40 mph with gusts to 60 mph across the mountains and below the canyons and passes of Southern California Saturday night through Sunday morning as the trough passes to our south and east and a weak ridge of high pressure builds in from the Pacific Ocean. There will be little change in temperature Sunday, but the humidity will drop back into the single digits and teens. A Pacific trough will drop down the West Coast causing temperatures to cool to near or a little below normal and humidity to increase significantly Monday. Southwest winds of 20 to 30 mph with gusts to 50 mph will surface across the mountain ridges and desert passes Sunday night through Monday afternoon. This trough will cut off from the main flow and form a closed low off the Southern California Coast bringing the possibility of scattered showers mainly to Southern California Monday night through the end of next week.
